Welcome to the 2018-2019 True Colors Resource Guide! Updated annually, the Guide offers an extensive array of resources across a wide range of sexual and gender minority youth issues and services in Connecticut, regionally, and in some cases, nationally. In addition, the Guide provides a wealth of information on such topics as risk and protective factors, talking with children about gender, impact of family response, etc.

Although the True Colors Resource Guide is offered at no charge, donations to cover postage or printing are always welcome. The Guide is also available electronically at www.OurTrueColors.org.

True Colors’ mission is to create a world where youth of all sexual orientations and gender identities are valued and affirmed. We challenge all forms of oppression through education, training, advocacy, youth leadership development, mentoring and direct services to youth and those responsible for their wellbeing. True Colors works with schools; families; communities of faith; municipal, state and federal agencies; legislators and policy makers across the state of Connecticut. Our work is supported by a volunteer Board of Directors, five full-time staff, numerous student interns, scores of volunteers, donors, private and corporate funders – and people just like you!

True Colors, Inc. Programs Include:

- One-on-One Mentoring Program
  True Colors provides Connecticut’s only LGBTQ Youth Mentoring Program, bringing the benefits of mentoring directly to LGBT youth in out-of-home care since 2005. In addition to One-on-One Mentoring, this program provides weekly group activities giving youth the opportunity for healthy peer interactions.

- Annual Conference
  Our flagship program, the annual True Colors conference, began in 1994 and is now the largest and most comprehensive LGBTQ Youth issues conference in the world! Each year, more than 3000 youth, educators, social workers, clinicians, family members and clergy participate in 250+ workshops, films, activities and events over the course of the two-day program.

- Youth Leadership Development
  When we began working with schools in 1994, there were only four Gay/Straight Alliances in Connecticut. Now, there are nearly 200. True Colors played a role, directly or indirectly, in the development of most of them. We’ve conducted dozens of GSA Summits, forums and trainings for youth, empowering them to launch, grown and maintain programs in their schools. We also offer many leadership development opportunities for our organizers and volunteers.

- Safe Harbors Task Force
  True Colors collaborates with the State Department of Children and Families to identify and meet the needs of LGBTQ youth in out-of-home care through policy, programming and advocacy work. In addition, we recruit foster parents for adolescents of all genders and orientations.

- Cultural Competency Training
  Our nationally-recognized Values Clarification and Cultural Competency Training Curriculum stands as the only curriculum ever published by the Child Welfare League of America. Each year, we train approximately 6,000 youth-serving professionals, who in turn touch the lives of countless youth and families.

- Spiritual Institute
  The Spiritual Institute focuses on the spiritual needs of LGBTQ youth. Launched in 2009, its primary mission is to help identify and create safe, affirming spaces and communities in which our youth may tend to their spiritual work.

The True Colors Resource Guide is an expanding, evolving resource, and many of the topics included have been requested by its users. If there is something you’d like to see added to the next addition, please let us know!

Robin P. McHaelen, MSW, Executive Director

True Colors Youth Leadership

True Colors offers on-site GSA youth leadership training throughout the school year. Our youth activities coordinator and/or youth leadership will visit your GSA upon request to offer training, support, advocacy and ideas. Simply email Melissa at GSA@ourtruecolors.org or call them at (860) 232-0050 x 306 to arrange for us to come to your school.

In addition we offer an annual six week summer program called, “Queer Academy”. This free program runs 4 days a week from 10 AM – 3:00 PM and includes field trips, self-exploration, and leadership training. Applications for Queer Academy are available on-line at www.ourtruecolors.org or by calling True Colors at (860) 232-0050.

GSANetwork.org Resources

Gay-Straight Alliance Network is an online youth leadership organization that connects school-based Gay-Straight Alliances (GSAs) to each other and community resources. Through peer support, leadership development, and training, GSA Network supports young people in starting, strengthening, and sustaining GSAs and builds the capacity of GSAs to:

Create safe environments in schools for students to support each other and learn about homophobia and other oppressions, educate the school community about homophobia, gender identity, and sexual orientation issues, and fight discrimination, harassment, and violence in schools

Stonewall Speakers Association:

www.stonewallspeakers.org coordinator@stonewallspeakers.org

Stonewall Speakers is a speaker’s bureau comprised of lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender people and allies. Engagements generally include two or more panelists and combine personal life stories with a question and answer session. We speak with thousands of youth and adults annually in high school classes, GSA’s, faculty meetings, college classes, or any group that asks for us. To schedule Stonewall to come to your school, church or community group, email the coordinator at the email above.

To add or change a listing, please call or email us at (860) 232-0050 or lea@ourtruecolors.org
Getting a GSA Started

- Find an advisor who believes in what you are doing
- Choose a time and place to hold your meetings
- ADVERTISE EVERYWHERE! Use posters, announcements, etc.
- Inform supportive teachers, school social workers and guidance counselors, etc.
- Come up with ideas for the first two or three meetings to get things started

Activities and Change Projects for GSA Meetings

Starting and Stopping:
Every meeting should start with an icebreaker and end with a chance for everyone to give feedback

Sample Ground Rules:
- One mic...
- No dissing....
- Elmo (Enough Let’s Move On)...
- Step up, step back
- No side conversations

Some Activity Ideas:
- Watch a LGBT film...
- Bring in outside speakers...
- Plan theme dances...
- Make safe zone stickers or posters...
- Participate in the Day of Silence (April) or National Coming Out Day (October) or No Name Calling Week (January)...
- Plan a GSA summit or other joint activity with nearby schools...
- Make a movie...
- Raise money to come to the True Colors conference in March...
- Have a bring a friend day...
- Role play ways of interrupting intolerance...

Some Meeting Topics:
- Gender... What makes a man a man; a woman a woman...
- LGBT history... Group topics (put in a hat and people draw one out)...
- PRIDE... Coming out as LGBT or an ally...
- dealing with homo/bi/trans phobia...

Hold a Rally... Write and perform a skit for an assembly or faculty meeting

Mentor middle school students

Meet with your local, state and/or federal representatives

Mobilize parents to support your project.

Set up a social media page to support an action for change

Put up flyers and posters during LGBT history month (October), highlighting LGBT African Americans during Black History month (February); LBT women during women’s history (March); Latino/a LGBT folks during Hispanic Heritage month (September) or transgender folks during the National Day of Remembrance (November)

Create a petition... Update or challenge school policies related to orientation, gender, dress codes... Write letters to the editor for your school, community or local newspapers

Ally for another social justice issue and join in their actions: immigration rights; anti-racism; universal health care, etc.
Tools & Tips for GSA Leaders

- Don’t TALK TOO much!
- Allow some (but not too much) time for people to socialize at every meeting
- Remind the group about your chosen ground rules at every meeting to help new people fit in
- Ask Questions. Let the group decide and be responsible for its own success
- Make sure everyone has a chance to talk at every meeting
- Have the group come up with a word that you can use when someone is monopolizing the conversation or taking you off topic
- Use a ‘check-out’ at the end of every meeting:
  - What worked?
  - What didn’t work for you about the meeting?
  - What is one thing you learned today that you can use? What was your favorite part of the meeting? Etc.
- Break up cliques and make sure that every new person feels welcome and included
- Talk about how to resolve a conflict within the group BEFORE it happens
- Have an agenda for every meeting but be flexible in how you follow it.

Youth and Family Service Bureau Services

Connecticut’s Youth Service Bureaus (YSBs) offer a variety of services and programs for children and youth. YSBs are committed to providing safe and inclusive services to all the youth they serve. Some offer LGBT specific programming and some do not. Each YSB is distinct and different. While an individual YSB may not offer the service you want, all YSBs will welcome your call and locate that service for you. To find out about what is available in your area, check out their website at: www.ctyouthservices.org

Some Internet Safety Tips

The internet is both a great place to hang and a perfect place to get hurt – especially if you can’t tell anyone who you are talking to or why.

The Internet is a great source of support for LGBT teens. For some, it is may be the only support. It’s a place where you can find and make friends, find acceptance and be yourselves, get advice, read magazines, talk to friends, form activist groups and more. Unfortunately, not everyone you meet on the ‘net’ has such innocent intentions. Sometimes, you can become the perfect ‘prey’ – especially if you would be afraid to tell your parents if something happened because it would mean coming out to them.

People are not always who or what they say they are. Appearances can be deceiving and people may try to talk you into doing things you might feel badly about later. Trust your instincts. If you catch someone in one lie, chances are there are others. Be careful how much information you provide about yourself in your profile.

Maintain your privacy. Do not give out or post your name, address, phone number, what school you go to, or any other private information. Keep in mind that all information on the internet is available to everyone. Computers log every website you visit. Keep this in mind especially on public access computers. Think before you click. Before posting something online, check and make sure it says what you wanted it to say, can’t be misconstrued, and is being posted at the right place or sent to the right person. Think about the person on the other side. Many cyber-wars start with a careless message.

Be careful if you decide to meet. It can be a BAD idea to meet face-to-face with someone you only know on-line. Meet in a public place a few times first, before deciding to go to a more private location. Always tell someone where and with whom you are going! Make sure you use your own or public transportation in case things don’t go as you planned and you want to make an earlier exit.

Meet ONLY in Public Places! And make sure someone knows where you are going and what time you should be back.

Make sure you have a good firewall and an automatically updated anti-virus program installed on your computer. While you’re at it, get a good spyware or adware blocker too. Be careful about downloading or opening files sent to you, even from people you know. Many viruses masquerade as someone you know. Hacking tools and programs (such as Trojan horses) can give someone a backdoor to your computer, all your passwords and banking information.

Don’t be a victim of a "phishing" scheme. Phishing is when an ID thief sends millions of emails or IMs pretending to be your bank, or online service, like PayPal. They look real and try to scare you into reacting without thinking. They claim that someone has broken into your account, or that changes were made to your account. They ask you to login using the link in the email. The link takes you to their site, but you think you’re at your bank’s site. You type in your login and password. A page pops up telling you that your account is secure and thanking you. Your real account is accessed and emptied within minutes.

Phishers look real and are everywhere!

You have the right to expect respect. If something happens to you that you think is harassment, assault or rape, then you need to take action. Tell someone you trust. Call the police. Call a hotline. You deserve respect and care.

Trust your instincts

Remember your body is yours and yours alone. You have a right to stop things whenever you feel uncomfortable – even if the other person doesn’t want to. You have the right to say NO! Trust Your Instincts. If you feel unsafe, you probably are. Act on your feelings and get out.

How to Be an Ally to Trans Youth

Ask Me: What do you hope for in an ally? When would you like to me stand up for you? When do you prefer to stand up for yourself – or not make a scene?

Don’t assume that passing means success and not passing means failure. It is not every transperson’s goal to conform to gender stereotypes.

Don’t second guess what gender someone ‘really’ is. It is disrespectful. Remember that birth sex and anatomy are not always the same as gender.

Take me seriously. Take my gender identity and expression seriously. If you are not sure what pronoun to use, ask – and then use it correctly.

Don’t assume that all transgender people are heterosexual – or that we are not.

Don’t assume that transgender people are sex-workers. Although some of us engage in survival sex because our unemployment rates are close to 70%, don’t assume that all transgender people are sex workers, or that that we are sex workers because we have no other choice.

Don’t out me! You could put me in danger by outing me without my consent. ALWAYS ask!

Non-traditional gender expressions are valid. Some transgender youth’s ideal is to be gender-fluid, or androgynous.

The majority of transgender people experience body dysphoria; in other words, we are extremely uncomfortable with our bodies – some might go as far as to say we are in the “wrong body”. Be aware of this, and try to be sensitive and respectful.

Doctors: Avoid unnecessary nudity, let your patients get dressed as soon as possible. When discussing gendered body parts with a trans person, ask us what terms we use to refer to our bodies – and then use those terms. (What you might call a penis, a transwoman may call her clitoris. A transman may refer to his genitals as his “bits” or “junk”, or his breasts as his “chest” or “pecs.”) Trans Clients Speak is an excellent DVD: www.transclientsspeak.blogspot.com

Educate yourself on the issues. It is not a transgender person’s job to educate YOU – especially if you are in a helping or professional position.

Transgender people can and do lead healthy sexual lives. Many of us have fulfilling sex lives, whether that means respectful, loving long-term relationships, or satisfying short encounters. There are plenty of people, transgender or non-transgender, who find us desirable.

Instead of asking a transgender client how their birth families will react, ask us what support systems we have in place. Help us figure out what they will do if these people react negatively.

Many thanks to:
Aidan Dunn, Brooklynne Michelle, & Simon Knaphus from the Youth Gender Project for creating these tips for allies.

©2004 Youth Gender Project.

Transgender youth have social and emotional difficulties resulting from this. Many trans youth develop unhealthy coping mechanisms such as substance abuse, eating disorders, self-harm, etc. Be aware of the connection. Be sensitive when dealing with us.

Years of hostility and abuse can take can take a toll on youth. Many trans youth have social and emotional difficulties resulting from this. Many trans youth develop unhealthy coping mechanisms such as substance abuse, eating disorders, self-harm, etc.

Don’t make assumptions about religion. Many transfolks belong to religious traditions that support our identity and contributions; for others spirituality may not be important to us.

Many thanks to:

Substance Abuse Treatment Issues & Resources

For CT LGBT 12-Step Meeting Info: InfoLine: Dial 211
AA: Hotline (800) 252-6465 or www.ct-aa.org • NA: Hotline (800) 627-3543 or www.ctna.org

Issues:

- A number of studies have suggested that LGBT youth have higher rates of substance use, including tobacco, alcohol and illicit drugs than their heterosexual peers.
- In general, gay men appear to exhibit little elevated risk for alcohol abuse or heavy drinking relative to heterosexual men. The rates of drinking for gay men tend to remain constant over the life cycle; however, while the rates for heterosexual men tend to decrease as they age. Recent studies examining trends in drinking have reported decreases in drinking and alcohol related problems with gay men.
- Lesbians appear to be at higher risk for heavier drinking and for drinking related problems than heterosexual women in all age categories. The highest rates were reported by lesbians aged 55 or older, who were least open about their sexual orientation and least connected to the lesbian community.
- Lesbians are more likely to currently use marijuana than any other illicit drug. Gay men are more likely to use club drugs, inhalants, stimulants and sedatives.

Risk Factors:

- The role of the “gay bar” as a social vehicle; Fewer peer, family and societal supports; Internalized homophobia
- Socioeconomic and psychosocial conditions associated with minority status; for youth, higher risk of factors which are associated with drug use: truancy; school drop out; smoking, depression, etc.
- Stresses related to identity formation and coming out
- Cigarette smoking (often considered a gateway drug) is significantly higher among sexual minority youth and lesbian women than in heterosexuals

Assessment and Treatment Issues:

- Clients usually present with global reports of anxiety or depression or with specific problems in one or more life areas that are the result of drug or alcohol abuse. Few specific instruments exist to assess the impact of orientation, or even to include orientation in the process. Therefore all assessments must include a thorough (current and past) psychosexual history
- Clinicians must be able to identify and assess which stage of the coming out process their clients are in. This is significant because it directly impacts the therapeutic process and can help identity appropriate interventions
- Culturally competent treatment might include assisting the client in increased self-awareness and acceptance as a sexual or gender minority as well as an exploration of coping strategies to assist with discrimination and rejection from society, peers, family of origin and others, along with the stresses of recovery. For example, if alcohol or drugs were used to conceal inner conflict related to orientation, then it will be essential to address those issues in order to alleviate guilt, shame, self-hatred, etc.
- Does the treatment environment include and affirm the client’s (often) non-traditional family networks and support systems? Identification and recognition of a ‘chosen’ family support system are highly beneficial for the continuance of recovery. What resources exist within the LGBT community to support sobriety?
- Does the treatment environment affirm LGBT clients? Are intake, assessment and other forms, inclusive of LGBT lives and identities? To what extent is the client able to be “out” in in-patient, day treatment and other groups?

Homeless Youth Risk Factors and Concerns

Risk Factors:

- Up to 40% of homeless youth are LGBT while only 4 – 11% of general youth population is LGBT
- While homeless youth typically experience severe family conflict as the primary reason for their homelessness, LGBT youth are twice as likely to experience sexual abuse before the age of 12
- LGBT youth, once homeless, are at higher risk for victimization, mental health problems, and unsafe sexual practices. 58.7% of LGBT homeless youth have been sexually victimized compared to 33.4% of heterosexual homeless youth
- LGBT youth are roughly 7.4 times more likely to experience acts of sexual violence than heterosexual homeless youth
- LGBT homeless youth commit suicide at higher rates (62%) than heterosexual homeless youth (29%)

Urban Institute. 2015. Based on interviews with 283 youth in New York City, this is the first study to focus on lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer or questioning (LGBTQ) youth; young men who have sex with men (YMSM); and young women who have sex with women (YWSW) who get involved in the commercial sex market in order to meet basic survival needs, such as food or shelter. The report documents these youth’s experiences and characteristics to gain a better understanding of why they engage in survival sex, describes how the support networks and systems in their lives have both helped them and let them down, and makes recommendations for better meeting the needs of this vulnerable population. Sexual Minority Youth: Risk Factors

Although support continues to grow, too many continue to face the risks associated with social isolation and a stigmatized identity. Some sexual and gender minority youth continue to experience a lack of support across critical areas of their lives.

In August, 2016, the CDC issued the first nationally representative data on the health risks of lesbian, gay, bisexual (LGB) high school students. The results were telling. LGB students experience physical and sexual violence, as well as bullying at significantly higher levels than their peers. Although transgender youth were not explicitly included in the data, it is likely that their risks are even higher. LGB youth are more likely to report:

- Being forced to have sex (18% v 5% of straight youth)
- Sexual dating violence (23% v 9%)
- Being Bullied: (34% v 19%)
- More than 40% seriously considered suicide; 60% reported being so sad or hopeless that they stopped doing some activities
- LGBT students were up to 5 times more likely to report using several illegal drugs
- More than 1 in 10 missed school in the last 30 days because of safety concerns

Sexual Minority Youth: Protective Factors

None of the ‘parade of horribles’ listed above are either set in stone or experienced by all LGBT youth. In fact, many of these risks factors can be ameliorated when youth receive support in one or more areas of their lives. Remove the social isolation and stigma, and much of the emotional distress is relieved. Specific protective factors include:

Family Response. The results of a multi-year, mixed methods study conducted by Caitlin Ryan and her team for the Family Acceptance ProjectTM, at the Cesar E. Chavez Institute, at San Francisco State University, clearly indicate the profound impact that family reactions to an adolescent’s sexual orientation and gender identity and expression have on their health, mental health and well-being.

School based protective factors include:

- The presence of supportive staff: The 2011 GLSEN Study noted that supportive staff contributed to a range of positive indicators including fewer reports of missing school, greater academic achievement, higher educational aspirations and a greater sense of belonging to their school community

- The existence of a Gay/Straight Alliance (GSA). A 2008 study on suicide ideation and attempts among sexual minority youth concluded that GSAs were a protective factor and, in fact, the presence of a GSA was the only factor of those they tested that was associated with lower odds of suicidality. (Walls, Freedenthal, Winseski, Social Work, A journal of the National Association of Social Workers, January, 2008, Vol. 53, Number 1).

- The existence of inclusive safe school policies: Students from a school with a safe school policy that included protections based on sexual orientation and/or gender identity/expression heard fewer homophobic remarks, experienced lower levels of victimization related to their sexual orientation, were more likely to report that staff intervened when hearing homophobic remarks and were more likely to report incidents of harassment and assault to school staff.
Gender Identity, Gender Expression, Sexual Orientation & Biological Sex

Each one of these four elements of identity exists along its own continuum.

Where an individual falls on each continuum depends on their own innate sense of identity, coupled with how they choose to express that identity.

In addition, for many of us, identity is fluid and changes over time. Where an individual identifies on one continuum doesn’t necessarily predict where they will identify on another continuum.

And no one has to be “less” of one in order to be “more” of another (e.g. you don’t need to be less masculine to be more feminine).
Impact of Family Response

Outcomes for Affirmed Youth vs. Rejected Youth

All of the information in this section is based on national studies†. Please note that not all youth will experience these outcomes, and that we acknowledge varying degrees of affirmation and rejection.

Rejected

“Rejection” can mean anything from trying to change or deny a youth’s identity, preventing them from finding peers and/or resources, or not allowing/helping/supporting them to develop a bright outlook on what a future as a gay or trans adult might be. Sometimes, adults don’t even realize that’s the environment they’ve created for the youth around them. That’s a lot of pressure and rejection to deal with.

As a result, youth experiencing high levels of rejection are:

- 8.4 times more likely to report having attempted suicide
- 5.9 times more likely to report high levels of depression
- 3.4 times more likely to use illegal drugs
- 3.4 times more likely to report having engaged in unprotected sex
- More likely to leave home/run away
- Experience higher rates of truancy
- More likely to have low self-esteem
- More likely to have a low GPA
- Report feeling less connected

Affirmed

“Affirmation” can come in just as many different shapes and sizes too! Research suggests that while outcomes are best for kids with affirming parents and care-givers, kids whose care-givers are at least ambivalent experience significantly lowers risk rates for suicidality, controlled substance use, truancy, depression, and unprotected sexual behaviors.

As it turns out, being a little less rejecting and a little more accepting can make all the difference in the world for LGBT youth.

Youth coming from families who were very or extremely accepting were:

- More than 70% more likely to believe they would have a good life as a gay adult
- Between 77%-92% more likely to believe they could be happy as a gay adult
- Between 50%-69% more likely to want to become a parent

Some FAQ’s About Sexual Orientation

There are some common questions we hear about sexual orientation in general. Here are some of the most frequently asked questions and our responses.

What is Sexual Orientation?
Sexual Orientation refers to an enduring pattern of emotional, romantic, and/or sexual attractions to men women, both or other sexes. Sexual orientation also refers to a person’s sense of identity based on those attractions, related behaviors, and membership in a community of others who share those attractions. Research over several decades has demonstrated that sexual orientation ranges along a continuum of exclusive attraction to another sex to an exclusive attraction to the same sex. However, sexual orientation is usually discussed in terms of three categories: heterosexual, gay/lesbian, and bisexual. However, some people may use different labels or none at all.*

How long have there been LGBT people? Where did they come from?
A range of sexual behaviors, attractions and orientations have been described in various cultures throughout time. Ancient and early Greece, Egypt, and Native or First Peoples all have written texts and oral histories that describe individuals who are attracted to the same sex, both sexes, multiple sexes, and as who identify as genders different than the sex they were assigned as birth (known today as transgender).

How do people know if they’re lesbian, gay or bisexual?
The core attractions that form someone’s sexual orientation and identity typically emerge during middle childhood to early adolescence. These patterns of attraction may arise without any prior sexual experience. People can be celibate and still know their sexual orientation.

Experiences may differ from person to person. Some people know that they are lesbian, gay or bisexual for a long time before they actually pursue relationships with others. Some people engage in sexual activity before assigning a clear label to their orientation. Prejudice and discrimination make it difficult for many people to come to terms with their sexual orientation and identities, so claiming an LGB identity may be a slow process.*

The traditional wisdom here is to ask yourself “How do you know you’re gay/straight/bi/etc.?” It’s kind of a tough answer to nail down and sometimes, the answer is “I just do!”

What causes a person to have a particular sexual orientation?
There is no consensus among scientists about the exact “cause” of sexual orientation. Although there is a lot of research that examines what may influence sexual orientation (genetics, hormones, developmental, social and cultural influences), no findings have been conclusive. Many think that both nature AND nurture play complex roles. But thing is for sure: most people experience little or no sense of choice when it comes to sexual orientation.

Is homosexuality a mental disorder?
No! In technical terms, research has found no inherent association between any of these sexual orientations and psychopathology. Or, more clearly, both heterosexual and homosexual behavior are normal aspects of human sexuality. The American Psychological Association, American Psychiatric Association, Mental Health America (formerly the National Mental Health Association) and the American Academy of Pediatrics have all released statements to that end.*

Some FAQ’s About Gender

There are some common questions we hear about sex and gender in general. Here are some of the most frequently asked questions and our responses.

What is the difference between Sex and Gender Identity?
Sex refers to one’s body – internal and external reproductive organs and chromosomes and the labels assigned to people at birth, usually male, female, intersex/DSD. Gender Identity refers to one’s internal sense of one’s self as a man, a woman or something more, less or different than those binary categories. A simple way to remember is that sex is your body, identity is your mind. For some people those two continuums of identity match and for some they don’t. However, some people may use different labels or none at all.*

What is Gender Expression?
Gender expression can be thought of as the external signals that we use to place ourselves and others into categories such as masculine, feminine, androgynous, etc. These signals include clothing, hair styles, mannerisms, voice, expectations about behavior, etc. Again, for some people, their gender expression matches their sex and/or their gender identity and for others it may not. Some people use different labels or none at all. People often use gender expression to make assumptions about other people’s sex, gender identity AND sexual orientation. In fact, many of the stereotypes about gay and lesbian people are about gender rather than patterns of attraction.

What is Transgender?
Transgender is most often defined as a global term that encompasses a wide range of thoughts, feelings, identities, behaviors and gender expressions in which one or more elements of one’s identity or expression are not the same as the sex the individual was assigned at birth.

How does someone know they are transgender?
The traditional wisdom here is to ask yourself “How do you know that you are not?” Think about it. What can you point to or name that tells you what your gender identity is? And remember, gender identity is not the same as your body parts. It’s kind of a tough answer to nail down and often, the answer is “I just do!”

What causes a person to be transgender?
There is no consensus among scientists about the exact “cause” of gender identity development. Many think that both nature AND nurture play complex roles in the development of our identity. But thing is for sure: most people experience little or no sense of choice when it comes to their internal gender identity.

Is Transgender a mental disorder?
No! In technical terms, research has found no inherent association between gender non-conformity and psychopathology. The most recent edition of the Diagnosis and Statistical Manual (DSM5) removed Gender Identity Disorder entirely. It has been replaced with the concept of Gender Dysphoria. That distinction places the pathology more appropriately on society than on the individual. Consider: My gender is fine – it is society’s harassment, disapproval, stigma and unwillingness to allow me the freedom to be who I am that causes me distress...
SCHOOLS ARE UNSAFE AND UNWELCOMING
FOR THE MAJORITY OF LGBT STUDENTS

- 85% heard “gay” used in a negative way (e.g., “that’s so gay”)
- 52% were verbally harassed because of their gender expression
- 62% of transgender students were unable to use the school restroom that aligned with their gender

Coming Out is a personal decision and there’s plenty to consider before-hand. Remember that only an individual can decide when it’s right for them to come out because only they can truly know their situation and circumstances completely.

If you are considering coming out, here are a few things that you should think about.

1.) How comfortable are you?
   If you feel confused or uncertain (which is completely normal) reaching out to folks who won’t push for a label, but rather support and affirm your exploration might be best. At least at first, find people who will give you room to think, question, wonder and explore—people who will support you regardless of your ultimate conclusion about your orientation. Then, WHEN YOU ARE READY, begin planning to come out to family and friends whose reaction feels less certain to you. Don’t raise the issue until you are sure you can respond with confidence to the inevitable “Are You Sure?!” Confusion on your part will only increase confusion on their part. If you’re still figuring it out, or even still feeling guilty about it, it’s better to wait.

2.) Do you have support?
   Just in case things go wrong, you should have an individual or group you can turn to, in confidentiality, who will give you emotional support. If you need some help or support, you can call 211 in Connecticut– they have 24/7 emergency crisis support and are open and affirming to LGBT issues. Also, you call The Trevor Project Hotline at (800) 850-8078. They are a 24 hour LGBT youth suicide prevention hotline. Just remember that the moment-whatever it is-passes. You just gotta hang on.

3.) Can you answer questions?
   Your family and friends’ reactions may be based on a lifetime of homophobic information. Part of your job in coming out to yourself was to learn new things—now part of your job may be to teach others. Are you prepared to do that? If not, check out organizations like PFLAG (Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays) at www.pflag.org. They have brochures, information and even meetings just for parents and friends that can really help.

4.) Timing Counts!
   Holidays are notoriously stressful and hectic times for families. Your family’s response during such times, or other stressful times, will likely be different than calmer moments when people have time to think and process. This could take time (after all, it took you a while to come out to yourself and be ok with it!) and choosing the right moment is critical. Think about your own family and decide when might be the best time to bring up the subject.

5.) What if people don’t respond the way you thought/hoped they would?
   Have alternate plans. Remember that families will often need time to figure things out. But, if the situation turns violent or dangerous, get help from friends, the police, or the Connecticut Department of Children and Families (DCF). The DCF Hotline number is (800) 842-2288. A school social worker or other helping professional may be able to help you develop a safety net.

5.) Remember, not all rules are bad rules.
   Particularly when it comes to bringing partners home, remember that rules are still rules, regardless of the gender of your partner. Ask yourself “Would my parents let me share a room/express this much PDA/stay overnight with an opposite sex partner?” If not, don’t expect the rules to be different.
True Colors Coming Out Worksheet

How long have you known that you were LGB or T?

What were your thoughts/beliefs of LGB or T people before you realized that you belonged to that group?

What were your first thought when you realized you were different?

(How)Have those thoughts/beliefs changed?

Why do you want to come out now?

What will change (for you) if you come out? What will stay the same?

Who is the most important person for you to come out to? Why?

What do you think that person’s reaction will be? Why?

What do you think that person’s concerns will be? Why?

Can you/how will you address those concerns?

How will you react if that person is not accepting?

How will you react if that person is accepting?

What do you see as the best case and worst case scenarios when coming out? (With this person and in general?)

What is your plan if you are not accepted for who you are?

What is your plan if you are accepted for who you are?

Who can you turn to if things don’t go exactly how you hope they will?
For a long time, the process of coming out was thought of as linear, meaning there was a beginning, a middle, and an end. Today, experts agree that the coming out process is much more flexible and fluid than that. Below are some general notes on the coming out process and what it might look like.

Reconsidering Linear Models of Coming Out*

- Coming out is a somewhat fluid, interactive, life-long process that is highly influenced by the norms and values of individuals, individual families, cultures and societies.

- Most of the various “stages” models of coming out imply a linear progression from one stage to the next. These models ignore the wide variations among individual experiences. They also may or may not be relevant to people of colors, youth, women’s, bisexual, or transgender peoples’ experiences. They are often based on research with white, adult, middle class and male populations whose experiences may not reflect those of others.

- Lesbians appear to perceive affectional orientation and relationship dynamics as central to their self-definition. However gay men appear to view sexual behavior and sexual fantasy as more central to their identity. Some research also suggests a number of other differences between men’s and women’s sexuality and coming out experiences.*

- Coming out varies widely from individual to individual. An person’s gender, ethnicity, race, religion, and resources may have a profound impact on how he, she or ze experiences his, her or zir own identity, orientation, and self-definition.

- Most identity development models assume single social identities (e.g. race, gender, orientation) which overlooks tow important dynamics for LGBT people of color: the visibility or invisibility of sexual identity and the salience of identity.

- Most models inappropriately co-mingle personal and group identification, implying that individuals can’t be fully integrated in their LGBT identity unless they are completely open about their orientation with others. This perspective may underestimate the impact of coming out for people battling multiple oppressions (e.g. people of color, differently-abled people) without multiple support systems.

- Few coherent models of bisexual or transgender identity development even exist

Summary of LGBT Legal Rights in Schools

On the Federal Level

Title VII (protection on the basis of gender): In the 1989 case of Price-Waterhouse v. Hopkins, 490 U.S. 228 (1989), the United States Supreme Court held that “having specific expectations that a person will manifest certain behavior based upon his or her gender is not only conceptually outmoded sexual stereotyping, but also an unlawful form of sex discrimination.” The Court decided that “sex” under Title VII encompasses both sex and gender. These protections were extended in Schwenk v. Hartford, 204 F.3d 1187 (9th Cir. 2000), a case involving sexual harassment and assault by a prison guard against the transgender plaintiff, the Ninth Circuit concluded that “discrimination because one fails to act in the way expected of a man or a woman is forbidden under Title VII,” and that a transgender person who is targeted on this basis is entitled to protection. Although the current administration rescinded the DoE’s guidelines on best practices with transgender students, current law described above stands.

Title IX (protection on the basis of orientation, sex and gender): In March of 1997, a policy paper was issued that indicated that Title IX (a statute which prohibits sexual and gender discrimination) can be interpreted to include a prohibition against sexual harassment on the basis of orientation. That means that if a sexual minority student is sexually harassed (harassment with a sexual nature or overtone), and the school does not make significant efforts to overcome and prevent this harassment, the school has the potential to lose their federal funding! In addition, Title IX of the federal Education Amendment Acts of 1972 prohibits sex discrimination in any education program or activity that receives federal funding, such as public elementary schools. 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq. As a result, prohibited discrimination includes that which is based on not only sex, but also stereotypical ideas of gender-appropriate male or female behavior and expression, including clothing choice. A school may not discriminate against students or exclude them from any aspect of school-based activities or opportunities based on that student’s gender identity or expression. If an official knew of the misconduct and, acting with deliberate indifference, failed to stop the misconduct, the school administration may be held liable under Title VII for the harassment and its effects. See, e.g., Montgomery v. Independent Sch. Dist. No. 709, 2000 WL 1233063 (D. Minn. 2000); Miles v. New York Univ., 979 F. Supp. 248 (S.D.N.Y. 1997). In 2011, The Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (CHRO) sent a letter to all Connecticut schools on the issue of bullying and harassment. This letter follows an earlier letter sent by the USDOE Office for Civil Rights (OCR). www.sde.ct.gov/sde/bullyingandharassment. In 2017, the CT State Department of Education issued updated guidelines regarding gender identity and expression: Although provided to schools, it has not been updated on the CSDE website.

Constitutional Rights: The Constitution guarantees the right to equal protection. In the summer of 1997, this constitutional law was used to hold 3 school principals personally liable (in the amount of $800,000) for their failure to protect Jamie Nabozny from harassment based upon his sexual orientation as a student in a Wisconsin public school.

Equal Access Law: Congress passed legislation originally designed to allow religious groups to meet in the schools as a “club”. Because legislation must be neutral and can’t discriminate, the law broadly covers any “club” which allows anyone to join, has a non-violent purpose and meets the rules of the school, including Gay/Straight Alliances.

On the State Level

Anti-Bullying Statutes: PA 08-160 requires schools to develop and implement policies to address bullying

“Gay Rights Law” PA 91-58u (CGS 46a-81a / CGS 46a-60): CT is one of about 22 states that has an anti-discrimination law which makes it illegal to discriminate on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity/expression. Although this law is specific to housing and employment, many believe that schools are covered under the public accommodation clause.

Student Bill of Rights PA 97-247 Sec 6 (CGS 10-15c): Connecticut is one of about 12 states to amend their educational statutes to include sexual orientation/gender identity and expression protected categories

Hate Crimes Law (CGS 53a-181b / CGS 53a-40a): CT is one of more than 21 states that also has Hate Crimes legislation which includes sexual orientation and gender identity and expression and provides additional penalties for crimes committed out of “hate” and prejudice.

Tort Laws: Personal Injury Lawsuits allow a remedy for hurt and can be available to address all forms of bigotry in the school. Professional liability insurance does not cover discrimination (since it is illegal).

Licensing Statutes: These statutes always include ethics clauses that require non-discrimination. Failure to meet these standard can result in a teacher’s, guidance counselor’s or other licensed professional’s loss of license.
Discrimination in schools based on sexual orientation is a violation of federal law (Title IX) and CT State Law (10-15c). There have been over 15 cases nationwide that have been brought against school districts for failing to protect students from discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. People may file a complaint in a number of ways and can use any or all of the following:

Steps for Filing a School Discrimination Complaint

File a complaint with the school system under Title IX. To find out who your District Title IX Coordinator is, go to the CT State Department of Education website’s Title IX page: http://www.sde.ct.gov/sde/cwp/view.asp?a=2626&q=320472

File a complaint with the principal under 10-15c (see legal rights on previous page)

Call DCF (Dept of Children & Families) if child abuse is suspected - (800) 842-2288

File with the Office for Civil Rights in Boston by calling (617) 223-9662

File with the CT Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (800) 477-5737/(860) 541-3400

Use Section 1983 of federal law as a legal tool: “… gay students who face peer harassment may rely on federal law, namely 28 U.S.C. § 1983 [Section 1983], to sue school officials who turn a blind eye to harassment. When a school official knowingly allows the harassment of a gay student to continue, that school official violates the student’s right to equal protection under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.28 (From … PERSONAL LIABILITY OF SCHOOL OFFICIALS UNDER § 1983 WHO IGNORE PEER HARASSMENT OF GAY STUDENTS by JEFFREY I. Making a Difference: Immediate Action Steps

Individual Action Steps:

When you hear MEAN, INTERVENE!
Every time & every where

Speak up, speak out (understanding and respecting the courage that this takes). Explore your own assumptions, recognizing the source of some of your thoughts and beliefs and the impact of these beliefs on your works with LGBT youth and families.

Identify and use opportunities to contradict negative messages. Take advantage of “teachable moments”. Stop heterosexist jokes or remarks. Speak up in defense and support of LGBT clients, students and staff. Learn about the connections between anti-LGBT bias and racism, sexism, classism, etc.

Understand issues that may be unique to LGBT youth such as the fear of discovery; rejection and social isolation; pressure to conform to heterosexuality; potential harassment and violence; alcohol and drug abuse; suicide risks, etc.

Look for a support network of advocates. Listen and learn from LGBT people. Attend LGBT events, films, workshops, pride marches, PFLAG meetings, etc.

Examine your use of language: Do your questions and conversations assume heterosexuality of the individual and his/her parents or family? Never ‘out’ a student, client or family.

Educate others by sponsoring events, panels or workshops; intervene by providing accurate information upon hearing slurs or myths; interrupt anti-LGBT jokes, assumptions; write letters to the editor; etc.

Understand that questioning, exploration, and fluidity is normal for adolescents.

Challenge your pre-conceived ideas of what is good for youth and children in terms of placements, family structure and relationships. Educate yourself about sexuality and gender.

Consider carefully what you place into youth’s records since those records are going to follow them throughout the system.

Use supervision if you are struggling to balance your personal views with your professional responsibilities or if you want to ‘check out’ your assessment or recommendations for hidden biases. (Note that supervision can be provided by your supervisor OR by a trusted peer, mentor, or other knowledgeable support person in your life.)

Assess and educate existing and potential foster homes and other residential settings for their openness, comfort level, attitudes and policies regarding sexual orientation and gender identity of youth in their care.

Environment Action Steps:

You may want to implement some of the following suggestions as appropriate to your setting:

✓ Wear a button/sticker that promotes awareness;
✓ Use magnets or other posted symbols;
✓ Assess current posters and add awareness posters that include LGBT examples;
✓ Identify and use opportunities to integrate LGBT examples in curriculum, lesson plans, intake and other forms, interviews and other client interactions;
✓ Visible non-discrimination statement that explicitly includes orientation and gender identity/expression
✓ Provide at least one universal, gender inclusive or gender neutral ‘restroom’ so that people are not faced with the issue of choosing the ‘right’ or ‘wrong’ bathroom;
✓ Providing LGBTI specific media such as this resource guide, local or national magazines or newsletters. Post appropriate resource information and activities.

Collect pamphlets, information, community resources to use, share and display.
Agency Level Action Steps:

Review Intake and other forms for inclusive language: Filling out intake forms gives students or clients their first, and most important, impressions of the extent to which their identity and families systems are recognized and affirmed. Review your forms for inclusive language on sex, gender, relationship status, and family structures. Remember that Connecticut now has Civil Marriage which is a legal relationship between people and impacts next of kin, medical decision making, etc. In addition, if your practice is likely to include transgender and intersex people, additional training about their unique health, mental health and other concerns is critical to effective, competent service delivery.

- When discussing sexual history, it is very important to reflect client language and terminology about their partners and their behavior. Many people do not define themselves through a sexual identity label, yet may have sex with persons of their same sex or gender, or with more than one sex. If you identity an individual as ‘gay’ when they don’t self-identify in that way, you can damage rapport and trust. Respect transgender patients by using appropriate pronouns for their gender expression. If you are unsure, ask is a gentle, respectful way.

- If you need to perform a physical exam, remember that some transgender people are uncomfortable in their current bodies.

- When talking about sexual or relationship partners, use gender-neutral language such as ‘partner(s)’ or significant other(s). Ask open-ended questions and don’t assume the gender of a client’s partner(s) or sexual behaviors. Don’t assume that current and past behaviors are the same. Look for ways in which stereotypes can impact the questions you ask and don’t ask (for example, not asking a gay man about children; or not asking a woman who identifies as lesbian about STI risks).

- Within DCF, many forms (such as potential foster parent interview forms) have been updated to include gender-neutral language. Practice using that language until you are comfortable with it. If the forms are not neutral, practice asking the question in a way that is.

- Ask violence screening questions in a gender-neutral way, e.g. “Have you been physically or sexually hurt (are you currently being hurt, have you ever experienced being hurt) by someone you love or by a stranger?” , “Have you ever been sexually assaulted or raped?”

- Set and consistently enforce clear rules of behavior that respect and protect diversity; Encourage respectful discussion and debate.

- Contact agencies such as the Connecticut Women’s Education And Legal Fund (CWEALF (860) 247-6090; www.cwealf.org) or the CT chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (860) 523-9146; www.acluct.org for information on the difference between “free speech” and “hate language’.

Create and enforce clear policies. For sample policies, contact The American Academy of Pediatrics; The American Medical Association; The American Psychiatric Association; the National Association of Social Workers; Child Welfare League of America; the National Education Association; The American Federation of Teachers; The American Bar Association; The American School Counselor Association; the American School Health Association; and others with inclusive policies (or see Gay Lesbian Straight Education Network (GLSEN/CT’s) “Tackling Gay Issues in School” for samples of some of the above.)

Talking to Your Kids About Sexual Orientation

Why should I talk to them about this?

- To protect your child from prejudice. Even if they’re not gay, they may be called “gay” or a “fag” at some point. They will also probably see or hear others being teased the same way. Talking to your kids will help dissuade fears and clear up misinformation regarding that prejudice that they will inevitably be exposed to.

- To help pass on the values of respect and understanding. Odds are, your child will see LGBT characters on TV or even have LGBT friends and/or family members. They will have questions and your silence can be interpreted as intolerance.

- Talking about sexual orientation will make it easier to talk about other tough issues. Sexual orientation is one of the toughest conversation topics for kids and parents. If you can tackle this, you can take on other “tough-to-talk-about” like substance abuse and sexual activity and health.

When should I talk to them about this?

The short answer is all the time!

Kids even as young as 3 are known to ask questions regarding human sexuality. Of course, as responsible parents the answers we provide at 3 will be different than those we provide at 13 and even more different than those provided at 23. However, talking to kids about sexual orientation should be a conversation we start early and continue to have as they develop.

You don’t have to fully understand or even accept homosexuality to promote tolerance and respect. The important thing is to talk openly and honestly with your child. Don’t be afraid to admit when you’re embarrassed or don’t know an answer. Work together to find answers to questions and, at the same time, show your child that curiosity is nothing to be ashamed of.

Talking to Your Kids About Gender

Why should I talk to them about this?

- Because it is about them too! Gender rules impact – and too often limit – every one of us. The more room we can make for children who push the boundaries of gender, the more room there is for everyone to be themselves – including you – and your child.

- To help pass on the values of respect and understanding. Kindness matters. You don’t have to support gender differences to insist that everyone deserves respect.

- Because Language matters. When you tell a child what men and women are supposed to be like, you may miss out on what YOUR child is like. Adults can help by following one simple rule: when you hear mean, intervene.

When should I talk to them about this?

The short answer is all the time!

Children begin to determine their own and other people’s gender at about 2 or 3 years old. They often exhibit significant curiosity about genitals and gender. Children tend to express very concrete and rigid ideas about gender, usually starting with phrases such as ‘boys can’t....” or “girls are not allowed to....” A simple, “yes, they can” can make all the difference.

Example:

- Ages 3-5
  - Example: Your child says, ‘Boys can’t play with dolls!’ You can say ‘children can play with any toys they like.” Or, “That kid says she is a girl but she has short hair.” A response: “Different people like their hair different ways. Some girls like long hair and some like short hair. Same with boys.”

- Ages 6-12
  - Example: Joe tells his mom that there is a kid in his class that they have to call by a girl’s name now. Joe’s mom says, “For some kids what they feel on the inside matches what others see on the outside. For other kids, it doesn’t. Her name change probably helps her and other people to see who she really is.”

But what if I mess up?

Respuestas a sus preguntas acerca de la orientación sexual y la homosexualidad

- ¿Qué es la orientación sexual?
  La orientación sexual es una duradera atracción emocional, romántica, sexual o afectiva hacia otra persona. Es fácilmente distinguible de otros componentes de la sexualidad, incluyendo el sexo biológico; la identidad de género (la sensación sociológica de ser hombre o mujer) y el rol social de género (la adherencia a las normas culturales del comportamiento masculino y femenino).

- ¿Cuál es la causa para que una persona tenga una orientación sexual en particular?
  Hay numerosas teorías acerca de los orígenes de la orientación sexual de una persona. Hoy en día la mayoría de los científicos está de acuerdo en que lo más probable es que resulta de una compleja interacción de factores ambientales, cognitivos y biológicos. En la mayor parte de la gente la orientación sexual se establece a una edad temprana. También hay considerable evidencia reciente que sugiere que la biología, incluyendo factores genéticos u hormonales innatos, juega un papel significativo en la sexualidad de una persona.

- ¿Se elige la orientación sexual?
  No, los seres humanos no pueden elegir ser gays o héteros. La orientación sexual emerge para la mayor parte de la gente en la adolescencia temprana, sin ninguna experiencia sexual previa. Aunque podemos elegir si actuamos conforme a nuestros sentimientos, los psicólogos no consideran que la orientación sexual sea una elección consciente que pueda ser cambiada voluntariamente.
• ¿Puede cambiarse la orientación sexual mediante terapia?
   No. A pesar de que la mayoría de los homosexuales viven vidas exitosas y felices, alguna gente homosexual o bisexual puede buscar cambiar su orientación sexual mediante terapia, a veces presionados a intentarlo por influencia de miembros de la familia o de grupos religiosos. La realidad es que la homosexualidad no es una enfermedad. No requiere tratamiento y no es cambiable. Sin embargo no toda la gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual que busca asistencia de un profesional de la salud mental quiere cambiar su orientación sexual. La gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual puede buscar ayuda sicológica para el proceso de salir del closet o para lidiar con los prejuicios; pero la mayor parte va a terapia por las mismas razones y circunstancias de la vida que traen a la gente hétero hacia los profesionales de la salud mental.

• ¿Y qué hay de las llamadas "Terapias de Conversión"?
   Algunos terapeutas que realizan las llamadas terapias de conversión informan que han sido capaces de cambiar la orientación sexual de sus clientes, de homosexual a heterosexual. El escrutinio cuidadoso, sin embargo, muestra varios factores que ponen en duda sus afirmaciones. Por ejemplo, muchos de los informes provienen de organizaciones con una perspectiva ideológica que condena la homosexualidad. Además, sus alegatos están pobremente documentados. Por ejemplo, al concluir el tratamiento no hay un seguimiento ni se informa qué sucede durante un periodo largo, como sería lo estándar en cualquier intervención de salud mental. A la Asociación Americana de Sicológía le preocupa tales terapias y el daño potencial a los pacientes. En 1997, el Consejo de Representantes de la Asociación aprobó una resolución reafirmando la oposición al tratamiento homofóbico, y expresando el derecho del cliente a un tratamiento imparcial y a la autodeterminación. Cualquier persona que entra a terapia para tratar cuestiones de orientación sexual tiene el derecho de esperar que tal terapia tenga lugar en un ambiente profesional neutral, en ausencia de cualquier prejuicio social.

• ¿Es la homosexualidad una enfermedad mental o un problema emocional?
   No. Los sicológos, siquiatras y otros profesionales de la salud mental están de acuerdo con que la homosexualidad no es una enfermedad, un desorden mental, ni un problema emocional. Más de 35 años de investigación científica objetiva, bien diseñada, ha demostrado que la homosexualidad, en sí misma, no está asociada con desórdenes mentales ni con problemas emocionales o sociales. Alguna vez se pensó que la homosexualidad era una enfermedad mental porque la sociedad y los profesionales de la salud mental tenían información prejuiciada.

   En el pasado, los estudios sobre gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual incluía a pacientes en terapia, con lo cual se distorsiona el resultado. Cuando los investigadores examinaron los datos de personas que no estaban en terapia, rápidamente se dieron cuenta de que era falsa la idea que la homosexualidad era una enfermedad mental.

   En 1973 la Asociación Americana de Siquiatria confirmó la importancia de nuevas investigaciones mejor diseñadas y eliminó a la homosexualidad del manual que enumera los desórdenes mentales y emocionales. Dos años después, la Asociación Americana de Sicológía aprobó una resolución que respaldaba esa remoción.

   Por más de 25 años, ambas asociaciones han exhortado a todos los profesionales de la salud mental a que ayuden a disipar el estigma de enfermedad mental que alguna gente todavía asocia con la orientación homosexual.

• ¿Pueden ser buenos padres los hombres gays, las lesbianas y los bisexuales?
   Sí. Los estudios que comparan grupos de niños educados por padres homosexuales y por padres heterosexuales no han hallado diferencia en el desarrollo entre los dos grupos de niños en cuatro áreas críticas: su inteligencia, ajuste sicológico, ajuste social y popularidad con sus amigos. También es importante darse cuenta que la orientación sexual del padre no indica la de sus hijos. Otro mito acerca de la homosexualidad es la creencia equivocada que los hombres gays tienen mayor tendencia a abusar sexualmente a los niños que los hombres heterosexuales. No hay evidencia que sugiera que hay más homosexuales que heterosexuales que abusen a los niños.

• ¿Por qué los gays, las lesbianas y los bisexuales revelan su orientación sexual?
   Porque el compartir con otros ese aspecto de sí mismos es importante para su salud mental. En efecto, se ha descubierto que el proceso del desarrollo de la identidad para las lesbianas, los gays y los bisexuales, llamado “salir del closet”, está fuertemente relacionado con el ajuste sicológico mientras más positiva sea la identidad gay, lesbiana o bisexual, mejor será su salud mental y más alta será su autoestima.
Respuestas ...

• ¿Por qué es difícil el proceso de "salir del closet” para alguna gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual?
  Para alguna gente gay y bisexual el proceso de salir del closet es difícil, para otros no lo es. Frenteumente la gente lesbiana, gay y bisexual siente temor, se siente diferente y sola cuando por primera vez se da cuenta que su orientación sexual es diferente a la norma de la comunidad. Esto es particularmente cierto para la gente que se da cuenta de su orientación gay, lesbiana o bisexual siendo niño o adolescente, lo cual no es poco común. Dependiendo de sus familias y de dónde vivan, pueden tener que luchar contra prejuicios y desinformación acerca de la homosexualidad.

Niños y adolescentes pueden ser particularmente vulnerables a los efectos nocivos de prejuicios y estereotipos. También pueden temer el ser rechazados por su familia, amigos, compañeros de trabajo e instituciones religiosas. Alguna gente tiene que preocuparse de no perder su trabajo, o ser hostigado en la escuela, si se conoce su orientación sexual.

Lamentablemente la gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual tienen un mayor riesgo que los heterosexuales de sufrir asaltos físicos y violencia. Estudios realizados en California a mediados de los años noventa mostraron que casi la quinta parte de las lesbianas que participaron en el estudio, y más de la cuarta parte de los hombres gay que participaron, habían sido víctimas de algún crimen por odio, basado en su orientación sexual. En otro estudio realizado en California con aproximadamente 500 adultos jóvenes, la mitad de todos los hombres jóvenes participantes admitieron haber sido víctimas de alguna forma de agresión anti-gay, desde insultos hasta violencia física.

• ¿Qué se puede hacer para ayudar a gays y lesbianas en la lucha contra los prejuicios y la discriminación hacia ellos?
  La investigación ha encontrado que la gente que tiene las actitudes más positivas hacia los gays, las lesbianas y los bisexuales, es aquella que dice conocer bien a una o más personas gays -- frecenteente como amigos/as o compañeros/as de trabajo. Por esta razón, los sicológos creen que las actitudes negativas hacia la gente gay, como grupo, no tienen su fundamento en experiencias reales, sino que se basan en estereotipos y prejuicios. Además, la protección contra la discriminación y la violencia es muy importante, tal como lo es para cualquier otro grupo minoritario. Algunos estados incluyen la violencia contra un individuo por su orientación sexual como un “crimen por odio”, y diez estados de EE.UU. tienen leyes contra la discriminación basada en la orientación sexual.

• ¿Por qué motivo es importante que la sociedad esté mejor educada acerca de la homosexualidad?
  El educar a toda la gente acerca de la orientación sexual y la homosexualidad es probable que disminuya el prejuicio anti-gay. La información precisa acerca de la homosexualidad es especialmente importante para la gente joven que está descubriendo y buscando entender por primera vez su sexualidad -- ya sea ésta homosexual, bisexual o heterosexual. No tienen validez los temores de que tal información hará gay a más gente -- la información acerca de la homosexualidad no hace a nadie gay o hétero.

• ¿Están infectados de VIH todos los hombres gays y bisexuales?
  No. Este es un mito frecuente. En realidad, el riesgo de quedar expuesto al VIH está relacionado con el comportamiento de la persona, no con su orientación sexual. Lo que es importante recordar acerca del VIH/SIDA es que es una enfermedad evitable mediante el uso de prácticas de sexo seguro y no utilizando drogas.

• ¿Dónde puedo encontrar más información acerca de la homosexualidad?

DEFINICIONES

(Texto derivado de ABORDANDO LA TEMÁTICA GAY EN LA ESCUELA, GLSEN CT, GLAAD, ISNA, & LESBIAN WORLD, adaptado por Robin McHaelen y traducido por Nila Marrone):

Bisexual – (hombre o mujer) Una persona que siente atracción afectiva y sexual tanto hacia hombres como hacia mujeres.

Bisexual no asumido – (The Down Low or DL) Se refiere a hombres bisexuales no asumidos que tienen sexo con hombres sin el conocimiento de su pareja mujer.

Comportamiento sexual - Actos sexuales que los individuos eligen para realizarlos solos o con otros (masturbación, sexo oral, sexo vaginal o anal; entre personas del mismo sexo o el opuesto).

Crosdreser - Hombre y mujer que disfruta usando ropas del otro sexo, o aparentando ser del sexo opuesto. Tanto heterosexuales como homosexuales pueden ser crosdreseres, aunque la mayoría son hombres heterosexuales (Antes se usaba “travesti”).

Enamorados del mismo género – Un término utilizado desde principios de los años 90 para denominar a mujeres de color que aman a mujeres y hombres de color que aman a hombres como una forma de identificar este tipo de vida en la cultura afroamericana. Si bien muchos hombres gays y mujeres lesbianas de color prefieren ser identificados simplemente como gays y lesbianas, muchos otros prefieren la denominación de Afrocéntricos SGL o Enamorados del mismo Género (del inglés Same Gender Loving). Al respecto, antes de referirse a ellos lo mejor es no asumir y preguntar la preferencia de cada persona.

Gay - Un hombre que siente atracción afectiva y sexual hacia otros hombres. “Gay” a veces se usa también para mujeres.

Género “Queer” o Raro – (genderqueer) Término usado para crear palabras que identifiquen a hombres/mujeres de género no tradicional. Se puede incluir otros términos despectivos en un proceso de “recuperación y desafío” (“boy-dykes”, “bio-girlz”, “trannie-boys”, “trykes”, “Riotgirl”, etc.).

Heterosexismo - La creencia institucionalizada que todos son heterosexuales o deberían serlo y que la heterosexualidad es intrínsecamente superior y preferible a la homosexualidad y bisexualidad.

Heterosexual - Hombre o mujer que siente atracción afectiva y sexual hacia personas del sexo opuesto. A veces se los llama “heteros”.

Homofobia - El odio o miedo irracional, la aversión o discriminación contra los homosexuales. Similar al racismo: por ejemplo discriminación que sufren los latinos en Estados Unidos.

Homofobia internalizada - Experimentar vergüenza, aversión u odio contra uno mismo como reacción al sentirse atraído hacia personas de su mismo sexo.

Homosexual - Siente atracción instintiva, afectiva y sexual, hacia personas del mismo sexo. (Gay: hombre hacia hombres, lesbiana: mujeres hacia mujeres).

Identidad de género - Nuestro sentido interior de género de ser hombre o mujer, bisexual, transgénero, transexual, etc.

Intersexual - Una persona intersexual es alguien que ha nacido con los cromosomas que definen el sexo, los genitales externos (ambiguos), o los órganos reproductores internos, considerados no “estándar”, sea para hombre o mujer (reemplaza la palabra fuera de uso “hermafrodita”).

Lesbiana – Mujer que siente atracción instintiva, afectiva y sexual, hacia otras mujeres.

Minorías sexuales - gays, lesbianas, bisexuales, transexuales y transgéneros. (5 al 15% de la población dependiendo del estudio que se prefiere).

“Mujerista” – Un término puesto en uso por la autora Alice Walker para describir a la mujer de color que está comprometida con el tema de la opresión a otras mujeres. Este término se utiliza también para las mujeres de color que se han sentido relegadas por el movimiento “feminista”, por racismo o discriminación institucionalizados.

Orientación sexual - La atracción instintiva, afectiva y sexual, que se siente hacia otras personas. Personas del mismo sexo (lesbianas, gays), del sexo opuesto (heterosexuales) o de ambos sexos (bisexuales). Se hace notar que estas definiciones no son categóricas y pueden ser modificadas con el tiempo, en suma a aquellos que rechazan la dualidad de género se los puede identificar como “pansexuales” o usar otros términos.

Pansexual – Persona que manifiesta su sexualidad en formas variadas, con objetos y expresiones diversos. El/la que manifiesta muchas formas de expresión sexual.

Roles de género - El comportamiento social y culturalmente creado, y la apariencia impuesta a las mujeres (feminidad) y a los hombres (masculinidad).

Transexual - Una persona que se presenta a sí misma y vive como si fuera del género "opuesto" al del género genético con que nació. Los transexuales pueden ser heterosexuales, bisexuales u homosexuales en su orientación sexual.

Transgénero - Un término muy amplio, utilizado para describir a una serie de personas cuya identidad y expresión de género, en diferentes grados, no corresponde al de su sexo genético. Nota: El lenguaje sobre género y orientación sexual continúa evolucionando y True Colors agradece comentarios y opiniones de los lectores.
A pesar que la edad promedio en que la juventud gay sale del closet, ante ellos mismos y ante los demás sigue disminuyendo, un porcentaje significativo de jóvenes sale del closet durante su primer o segundo año de universidad. Muchos están pensando salir de él ante sus familias durante las vacaciones de invierno. Inclusive jóvenes que ya salieron del closet en la secundaria descubren que ahora han salido del mismo de una manera “diferente” – tal vez de una manera más abierta o con una pareja nueva. En cualquier caso, esto puede ser realmente estresante. Así que, de ahora en adelante, nuestra nueva tradición para el invierno será enviar nuestros “tips para salir del closet” como algo sobre lo cual deberían meditar.

Article I. Preguntas que debes Considerar Antes de Salir del Closet

1. ¿Te sientes seguro de tu orientación sexual o identidad de género? Si te sientes confundido o inseguro (lo cual es completamente normal, sobre todo al comienzo de la exploración de tu identidad), busca primero personas que sabes que te apoyarán y te reforzarán la confianza en ti mismo y habla con ellas – gente que no te presionará para que te etiquetes, gente que te dará el espacio para pensar, cuestionar, preguntar y explorar – gente que te dará el tiempo para entenderlo. Después, cuando estés listo, empieza a planear salir del closet ante tus familiares y amigos cuyas reacciones te sean menos predecibles. Nunca saques a relucir el tema a menos que estés seguro que vas a poder responder con toda confianza la pregunta “¿estás seguro?” La confusión de parte tuya únicamente aumentará la confusión de tus familiares y amigos y disminuirá su confianza en tu juicio.

2. ¿Te sientes cómodo con tu sexualidad y/o identidad de género? Si estás lidiando con culpa y períodos de depresión, es mejor que retardes la decisión de salir del closet ante tu familia o amigos. Salir del closet requiere de mucha energía por parte tuya; va a requerir de una reserva de sentimientos positivos hacia uno mismo – y de aliados y amigos comprensivos.

3. ¿Cuentas con apoyo? En dado caso que la reacción de tus padres, familiares o amigos te deje desconsolado, deberías tener una persona o un grupo de confianza donde puedas acudir en busca de apoyo emocional y de seguridad. Es sumamente importante mantener tu autoestima. A continuación te damos los teléfonos de algunos sitios a los que puedes acudir en caso que llegues a necesitar ayuda: en Connecticut llama a InfoLine al 211 – ellos atienden emergencias 24/7 y la línea de ayuda y de apoyo en caso de crisis recibe llamadas sobre temas LGBT. Otro lugar que también puedes llamar en caso de crisis es al Trevor Project Hotline al 1-800-850-8078 (línea de ayuda telefónica para la prevención del suicidio de jóvenes LGBT). Sin embargo, lo más importante que debes recordar, es que el momento – cualquiera que sea la reacción – pasa. Solamente tienes que conseguir sobrellevar ese momento.

4. ¿Posees conocimientos sobre orientación sexual e identidad de género? Tus familiares o amigos pudieran reaccionar en base a una larga información obtenida de una sociedad homofóbica, bi-fóbica y género-fóbica. Parte de tu trabajo al salir del closet ante ti debería ser educarte – ahora parte de tu trabajo será educarlos. ¿Estás preparado para hacer eso? Si la respuesta es no, ponte en contacto con organizaciones como Parents, Families and Friends of Lesbians and Gays (PFLAG). ¡Ellos cuentan con folletos especialmente diseñados para padres y familiares que realmente pueden ser de gran ayuda!

Más tips, secretitos y consideraciones para antes de salir del closet:

5. Nunca asumas que sabes o puedes predecir la reacción de una persona – puede que te lleves una sorpresa agradable por su reacción de apoyo.

6. ¡El momento sí cuenta! Considera que la respuesta de tus familiares si se los dices durante las fiestas de fin de año, podría ser diferente que si se los dices en otra época no tan llena de diferentes quehaceres y menos llenos de stress ¿Pudiera ser diferente si tocas el tema en otras circunstancias menos importantes? ¿Esta es la época más apropiada para hacerlo? Piensa sobre ello tomando en cuenta a tu familia y amigos y toma una decisión.

7. Recuerda que salir del closet es un proceso constante – es probable que tengas que salir del closet muchas veces y de diferentes maneras.

8. Reconoce que tus familiares y amigos necesitan tiempo para admitir y aceptar que tienen un hijo LGBT. Tú necesitaste tiempo para aceptarte como eres. Ahora le toca el turno a tu familia.

9. Deja que la opinión de tus familiares sea algo que ellos resuelvan, no es algo que tu tienes que asumir, mientras que sean amables contigo.
10. Ten planes alternativos en caso que las cosas se pongan difíciles en tu casa. Un trabajador social del colegio o algún otro profesional pudieran ayudarte a establecer un muro de seguridad. También recuerda que si la situación se pone violenta, debes salir inmediatamente de la casa y conseguir ayuda de amigos, la policía o la DCF. El número de la DCF para reportar abusos es 1-800-842-2288.

Si estás yendo a casa de visita o de vacaciones y planeas salir del closet durante tu estadía:

11. Lee nuevamente #6 y #10 arriba.

12. Si estás llevando tu pareja a tu casa, no esperes hasta la noche de fiesta para hacer los arreglos de alojamiento – planea por adelantado. También considera esto: “¿Tus padres te permitirían compartir un cuarto con una persona del sexo opuesto?” Si la respuesta es no, no esperes que las reglas sean diferentes simplemente porque tu compañero sea un...

13. De igual manera discute con tu compañero la manera en que van a hablar de su relación, si se van a hacer demostraciones de afecto en público, etc.

14. Enfócate en intereses comunes, recuérdale y confírmale a tu familia que eres la misma persona de siempre – solamente que ahora saben algo más de ti.

15. Se prudente acerca del deseo de querer escandalizar a tu familia. Ten mucho cuidado – No lo hagas.

16. Recuerda ser firme en cuanto a quererte y respetarte como persona y por quien eres. Recuerda que eres un regalo para el mundo. ¡Recuerda que el mundo sería un lugar menos especial sin la contribución que tú le aportas! Lo más fundamental, recuerda que eres muy querido, que eres cariñoso y que eres digno de ser amado.

Did you know that STDs (Sexually Transmitted Diseases) have been reaching record numbers in the past few years? The CDC (Centers for Disease Control & Prevention) have seen these cases skyrocket. That means more:

CHLAMYDIA
GONORRHEA
SYPHILIS
HUMAN PAPILLOMAVIRUS INFECTION
GENITAL HERPES
HEPATITIS B

These are alarming facts. But you don’t need to be a statistic. The Hartford Gay & Lesbian Health Collective can teach you methods of prevention so you don’t get infected. If you have an STD, we can help you with treatment and how not to get another one.
